

Community Standards

Housing Regulations

In addition to our Housing & Residential Life policies, our residence hall and apartment communities have established community standards to assist in providing a positive and respectful environment for all students who live with us. As part of the community standards, you and your roommate will be asked to complete a roommate agreement that will assist you in discussing expectations for living together. When discussing your expectations with your roommate, you will need to agree on guest options for your room/apartment.

General Guest Provisions:

- You must accompany your non-resident guests at all times while they are visiting your house/floor or individual room/apartment. Only invited guests are covered by the room/apartment's policy on guest hours. Unescorted persons will be asked to leave the hall or apartment complex.
- Residents may not have overnight guests under the age of 12 in University Housing.
- You may have guests stay overnight in your residence hall or apartment. Guests may not stay longer than 5 consecutive nights and cannot stay a total of more than 15 nights in any given semester. A limited number of rollaway beds are available through the information/reception desk. Consult your CA for further information about the guest options. Residents must obtain room/apartment mate permission(s) for overnight guests.

By applying for University Housing, you are agreeing to abide by University Housing policies.

All residents of a housing unit and its staff are responsible for reporting all violations of University policies and civil laws with which they are confronted. Judicial procedures, both on and off campus, may be used in enforcing these regulations.

Further, it is the responsibility of individual residents to know, understand, and comply with existing state and local statutes, codes, and regulations relating to the possession and consumption of alcoholic beverages. Violators of the regulations must accept full individual responsibility for their actions and cannot expect the University to provide them with immunity from civil or criminal prosecution. In no case will intoxication be considered as a defense in a judicial proceeding.

Alcohol is strictly prohibited in all residence halls, except for Centennial Hall, Mark G. Yudof Hall, Wilkins Hall, and University Village. This means that even if residents or guests are 21 years or older, they cannot consume or possess alcoholic beverages.

Privacy

Your room or apartment is considered private, and the administration may not enter it without your consent except for reasonable cause in the following cases: (1) for prearranged health and safety checks, maintenance, or repair; (2) in case of an emergency; (3) when there is a clear and present indication that a crime is being committed; or (4) when University regulations are being violated.

When a staff member enters your room or apartment to protect University property or under unusual circumstances, she or he will leave a notification of entry stating who was in the room and when. Such notification will not be left if you request that work be done or for normal periodic service requirements, e.g., by the Department of Environmental Health, insurance underwriters, or Housing & Residential Life personnel during semester breaks.

All other areas of University Housing are considered public. Housing & Residential Life determines the use of public space.

University Housing Regulations 2008-2009

Students are considered adults, and University-student relations are founded on this principle. The University Student Conduct Code and these University Housing Regulations govern all students. The regulations that follow pertain specifically to residence hall and apartment living, whenever you are on the grounds or within the University Housing system. If you violate any of these regulations, a complaint will be filed against you. The complaint will be heard either through an administrative conference process with the Residence Director/Assistant Director or through a formal hearing process, with the Student Conduct Board, the Coordinator of Residential Life Judicial Affairs, or, in some instances, the University's Campus Committee on Student Behavior.

Any behavior that would endanger the safety or well being of other residents or the University Housing system could result in your interim suspension from University Housing or relocation to another University Housing assignment.

You are responsible for the use of your room/apartment, and you are responsible for your guests and their behavior while they are in the residence hall, apartment or on university housing property. The University may bring disciplinary action against you for your guest's behavior.

If you have any questions about the interpretation or enforcement of these rules, please contact a staff member at Housing & Residential Life.

These are our current University Housing regulations. Please note that they are subject to change. When changes are made to these regulations, the changes are published and shared with students who live in University Housing.
